Five Islands Nature Reserve located in the Illawarra region provide habitat for Little Penguins, shearwaters and petrels. This habitat is threatened by invasive weeds trapping seabirds in their burrows and entangling their wings and feet.

NSW National Parks and Wildlife Service, in partnership with the Office of Environment and Heritage NSW Environmental Trust, invite the local community to an informative free seminar to learn about the Big Island rehabilitation project and to meet local volunteer groups associated with the project.

The event will be a celebration of the recent rehabilitation work, the proposed new work, 50 years of Five Islands being a Nature Reserve and a book launch of "The Story of Five Islands" by the children of Coomaditchie.
